

Working student for iOS development

Are you a student who enjoys developing Objective-C for iOS and has always wanted to work in a start-up with flexible hours? Then you've come to the right place!

We are a young start-up based in Cologne and develop various marketing tools for local retail and gastronomy.

More than 150 companies in Bonn, Cologne, Paderborn and other cities already use spotilike. We are currently planning the rollout to further cities.

Your Task:

You support our team in the further development of our iOS app and help us update the app and implement new and innovative features.

Your Profile:

We are looking for you if you love to develop iOS apps, you already have experience in iOS development with Objective-C and you can work independently.

Your working environment:

We offer you the possibility to choose your work hours. Work from home is no issue for us, but if you prefer to work in office, you are welcome to work in our Cologne office.

If we have piqued your interest and you would like to contribute to and shape our start-up with your skills, we look forward to receiving your application, including references, salary expectations and when you could start working for us, by e-mail at jobs@spotilike.com.

See you soon, I hope! :)
